Steuben.

A hero of illustrious name Came far across the stormy sea To win a higher, loftier fame In fighting for sweet liberty!

The baron left his royal home To greet the glorious western sun Sailing beyond the ocean foam To join the force of Washington!

From raw recruits to soldiers brave, Marching through stream and tangled gleb To glory or an bonored grave!

At Valley Forge he kept good cheer, And out of hunger, tears and blood Encouraged patriots without fear To struggle through that winter food!

The fight at Monmouth glorifled His dashing charges, wild and free, And then and there he signalized A victory for retreating Lee!

Of Continentals in their rage, And steered them in their bloody course To smash Cornwallis and his flags!

To Baron Steuben and his might Shall give to all the right of way For liberty in every fight!

The glory of this noble man Shall, like the ocean, dash and flow To cheer the great American! JOHN A. JOYCE. FUNERAL OF DR. SWOPE

Funeral services for Dr. John A. Swope former representative in Congress and vice president of the Washington Loan and Trust Company from the date of its organization in 1889 until 1905, who died early yesterday morning, were held at his home, 1312 N street northwest, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Charles Wood of the Church of the Covenant and Rev. J. T. Huddle, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheren Church, officiated. The honorary pallbearers were John
